CATARRH
COLD IN HEAD

THE FIREFLIES' WEDDING

By Catulle Mendes....

One evening as I was returning from the village fete I noticed in the light of a moonbeam a child sleeping against a tree in the roadway alongside of a miniature cathedral in plaster. I have often wondered who buys these hideous productions of ecclesiastical architecture, with such square, ungraceful outlines, surmounted by a tall steeple and illuminated with a candle end placed on the altar. A sensation of pity seized me when I gazed upon the poor little merchant, who must have spent the entire evening trying to sell his church, and, finding no purchaser, had fallen asleep to dream, perhaps, of the beating which awaited him at home.

Ragged, dusty and tanned, he was as picturesque as he was dirty. I awakened the lad, gave him some money and, to avoid the semblance of almsgiving, I accepted the plaster cathedral.

It bothered me a good deal as I carried it off under my arm. I walked faster, being anxious to relieve myself of the burden, which I intended to leave in a corner of the garden where it would serve as a scarecrow for the sparrows which were already beginning to steal my cherries.

I must have looked like one of those personages you see in religious paintings bearing the resemblance in miniature of the chapel which they have dedicated to St. Timoleon or St. Ildevert in expiation of their sins.

Midnight sounded; I was still awake in my bed, with eyes half closed. But it was an insomnia without fever, vague and delicious, refreshed by the soft moonlight entering through the wide open window close by, which also bathed the winding paths of the garden below, the beds of flowers and the velvet grass in the pale enchantment of fairyland.

Perfectly happy in my semiconscious state, without the sensation of existence, yet enraptured with the joy of living, I was rather a thing ecstatic than a man. And the vast silence, the absolute calm, so suggestive of solitary wastes, drowsy nooks, of leaves unstirred by any breeze, were deepened by the almost arrested throbbings of my heart, by the dispersion in a dreamless peace of all my dead desires.

Suddenly a sight noise startled me. One might have called it the contact scarcely sensible of some delicate object with a feebly resisting surface. The sound was rhythmical, too, at equal intervals, suggesting the idea of a bell infinitely distant among the clouds.

The noise continued hardly audible, yet seeming to gently importune me. I arose and looked out of the window.

Fancy my surprise!

The cathedral, which on entering I had placed near the door in a narrow path, like a church at the end of an avenue—the cathedral, whose candle end inside had long been extinguished—now radiated illumination through all its tiny red windows, and as I leaned forward to examine more closely I perceived that the inclination of an adjacent woodbine caused the steeple to be capped by an oscillating bellflower in which a bee performed the office of clapper or ringer. What was going on, then, in my garden beneath the mystic light of the moon?

I softly stepped over the window sill and knelt in the shade of an acacia. In the wall of the little church, just behind the choir, was a crevice, through which I now peeped. More than a hundred fireflies, attached either to the shafts of the columns or perched before the altar in lieu of candles, filled the edifice with light, and in the top of the steeple the industrious bee tolled his bell in the woodbine, as if calling the devout to some important ceremony.

A constantly increasing and innumerable throng of insects was entering the portals. Crickets and grasshoppers from the fields jostled each other eagerly in the van; a ladybug, to avoid being pushed in the crowd, was posted on the wing of a dragon fly; tiny insects vested in black and white, presumably the clergy, followed a gorgeous cochineal in purple. The whole seemed a strange confusion of murmurings from countless creeping things of every color.

When at length the entire company had taken their places in proper order, a large fly flew up to the organ loft and presently a humming sort of music, joyous, yet religious, fairly filled the little basilica so brightly illuminated by the fireflies.

A ceremony, indeed, of some sort was on the point of commencing.

When I beheld two minute creatures proceed toward the choir, the one with confident air beating its wings victoriously, the other hesitating and timid, I supposed there was a wedding afoot.

And of this I was sure when I saw at the high altar a magnificent beetle with green and gold chasuble, assisted by two lesser bugs as acolytes, approach the bridal party with gesture seemingly of benediction.

My eyes glued the crevice; I lost not a single detail of the august ceremony. With eager curiosity I watched the crowd as it gradually dispersed, while the fireflies extinguished their lights one by one. Then noiselessly I turned to trace on the moonlit path the course of the newly wedded couple after extricating themselves from the tumultuous throng.

Where would they go? Would they fly away for their honeymoon toward some distant nuptial flower under a warmer azure, beneath more ardent stars? Or would they content themselves with the first convenient corolla invitingly open under the discreet curtain of a leaf?

"Wherever fancy leads you, oh gentle bride and bridegroom, may the god of insects ephemeral and flowers quickly fading to you be kind! May you have much happiness in the few hours of your brief springtime!

"Never may the sabot of a peasant or the slipper of a woman who perchance seeks repose under a tree cause you fear as you wing your flight so close one to the other, over moss clad bank, from bush to bush! May the dewdrops that you sip together be ever perfumed to your taste! May the chalice proffered never refuse an odorous lodging! And if you should fall into the clutches of some cruel child may it be the same little hand that seizes you both so that you may suffer and die together!"

While I was breathing these heartfelt wishes for their happiness the two insects had not flown away; they had climbed up the length of a Bengal rose bush, the topmost rose of which surmounted the ledge of my window, and I saw them disappear inside the flower, whose petals, half gone, closed softly over the tender pair.

Not for one instant would I have thought of returning to my room by the window as I had left—a rustling of the leaves would have disturbed the rapt lovers in their first intimacy. I started, therefore, toward the door, where I happened to observe on the stone ledge another bug, which I had not perceived before and who without doubt had followed the others.

What was its business here? Why had it come? Was it a relative of the bride or—who knows—a rival of the bridegroom?

Many a man has suffered under the windows of a nuptial chamber, and among insects, perhaps, as with us, it is the misfortune of some that becomes the happiness of others.

The poor little creature remained motionless, close by the rosebush. I touched it with the end of my finger very gently. It stirred not. Alas! I knew, then, that it was dead.—Translated From the French For Commercial Advertiser.

"What's In a Name?"

The southern part of New Zealand has been colonized in the main by Scots and their descendants, and, as a result of Caledonian clannishness, a man without a Scotch sounding name has no chance of getting a contract from the municipal councils there.

At a meeting of one of these bodies it was announced from the chair that Sandy McPherson was the successful seeker of a contract, and he was requested to come forward and enter into the necessary bonds for its due fulfillment.

In response to the invitation an almond eyed, pig tailed, bland and smiling heathen Chinee rose from the rear of the hall and stood before the speechless councilors with the brief exclamation:

"Me Sandy McPherson!"

After a few moments of silent agony the meeting adjourned in confusion.

How to Skin an Eel.

When hooked, an eel will tie a line into many thousand intricate knots without any apparent difficulty. He is slippery and should be seized near the middle, with the middle finger over, the rest under his body. In this position he can only wind himself around your wrist and cover your sleeve with slime. Said slime often, if dried, is nearly as adhesive as the skin.

If skinned before his demise, he is as lively as ever, and half cooked four inch pieces will wriggle freely.

To remove the eel's outer garment grasp firmly with a mittened hand, cut through the back of the neck till the spinal column is broken, then through to the skin in front, seize the exposed meat with a bit of paper to prevent slipping and steadily pull the hide toward the tail, turning it wrong side out.

In the Sunset Magazine for December, issued by the Southern Pacific steamer and sailing vessel connections, interesting information is given into the port of Sydney or Auckland from the islands of the mid-Pacific brings some tons of fins, tails and skins of sharks. The principal markets for the former are Hongkong and Singapore, but the Chinese merchants of the Australasian colonies will always buy sharks' fins and tails at from six to eleven pence per pound, the fins bringing the best price on account of the larger amount of glutinous matter they contain, for which they are highly relished by the richer class of Chinese as a delicacy. The tails are also appreciated as an article of food in China, and, apart from their edible qualities, they have a further value as a base for clear varnishes, etc.

Coal, Damp and Dry.

If a load of coal is left out of doors, exposed to the weather, say, for a month, it loses one-third of its heating quantities. If a ton of coal is placed on the ground and left there and another ton is placed under a shed, the latter loses about 25 per cent of its heating force, the former about 47 per cent. Hence it is a great saving of coal to have it in a dry place, covered over on all sides. The softer the coal the more heating power it loses, because the volatile and valuable constituents undergo a slow combination.

Sleeplessness

Is akin to insanity. Many a woman realizes this as she lies awake hour by hour, peopling the darkness with phantoms, starting at the creaking of the bed or the rustle of the bedclothes.

Such symptoms in general point to disease of the delicate womanly organs, and a constant drain of the vital and nervous forces. This condition cannot be overcome by sleeping powders. The diseased condition must be cured before the consequences of disease are removed.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures the womanly diseases which cause nervousness and sleeplessness. It is the best of tonics and invigorants, nourishing the nerves, encouraging the appetite and inducing refreshing sleep. Irregularity, weakening drains, inflammation, ulceration and female weakness are perfectly cured by "Favorite Prescription."

"My wife was sick for over eight years," writes Albert H. Fulte, Esq., of Altamont, Grundy Co., Tenn. "She had uterine disease and was treated by two physicans and got no relief. At last I read about Dr. Pierce's medicines and we decided to try his 'Favorite Prescription.' I sent to the drug store and got one bottle and the first dose gave ease and sleep. She had not slept any for three nights. Being sure that it would cure her I sent for five more bottles and when she had taken the sixth bottle she was sound and well."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be used with "Favorite Prescription" whenever a laxative is required.

The ladies of the Congregational Church held their annual bazaar in Union Hall last night. A fine program, under the supervision of Mrs. H. The literary exercises and tableaux were both beautiful and entertaining and those who failed to be present missed a rare treat.

TWO CURIOUS BIRDS.

The Long Billed Avocet and the Black Necked Stilt.

There are two birds, more or less common in the central part of the United States and abundant in the far west, which occasionally stray eastward to the middle and north Atlantic coast and have been seen on Long Island. These are the American avocet and the black necked stilt, both of them sufficiently striking in appearance to attract immediate attention. The avocet is a slender creature, sixteen to eighteen inches from end of bill to tip of tail. Its wings and shoulders are black, the tail pearl gray. The rest of the plumage is white, changing to a chestnut brown on the neck and head. Such a combination of colors is noticeable enough, but when to this are added extraordinarily long blue legs and a very slender bill, comprising nearly a fourth of the bird's entire length and having a strong upward curve, a most fantastic object results.

Its actions are no less peculiar than its looks. Wading in shallow water, it bends forward so that the curve of the bill touches the bottom, and it swings it back and forth in unison with its advancing steps. The movement suggests a man swinging a scythe, the object being to discover with the very sensitive bill the food which the muddy bottom conceals.

The black necked stilt somewhat resembles the avocet, but its needle-like bill is perfectly straight and is not swung from side to side in walking. The length of its bill has led the western farmers to call it the lawyer. In alighting the stilt is as awkward as a boy just learning to walk on wooden stilts, and it seems to have fully as much difficulty in gaining its equilibrium, stumbling and tottering when it first alights. —New York Times.

A Pair of Them.

Those who have first gazed in dismay and then laughed at their own distorted reflection in a concave or convex mirror will appreciate an amusing occurrence lately witnessed at a menagerie.

Here and there between the cages were placed trick mirrors which reflected a distorted image. An Irishman, after a critical survey of the monkeys, had wandered away from his better half and suddenly found himself in front of one of these mirrors. After a glance at his distorted reflection he rushed back to his wife, who was still convulsed at the antics of the monkeys.

"Come away, Bridget," he exclaimed, "there's a bigger baste than meself in there!"

A Good Cough Medicine.

[From the Gazette, Toowoomba, Australia]

I find Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is an excellent medicine. I have been suffering from a severe cough for the last two months, and it has effected a cure. I have great pleasure in recommending it.—W. Caliente School.

Yesterday afternoon quite an elaborate program was carried out by the children of the Agua Caliente school. Miss Hattie Jacobs is the efficient teacher of the school and had been planning the order of exercises for some time. There was a good attendance of parents and friends of the school, which closed yesterday for the usual holiday vacation.

That Cough Hangs On

You have used all sorts of cough remedies but it does not yield; it is too deep seated. It may wear itself out in time, but it is more liable to produce la grippe, pneumonia or a serious throat affection. You need something that will give you strength and build up the body.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

will do this when everything else fails. There is no doubt about it. It nourishes, strengthens, builds up and makes the body strong and healthy, not only to throw off this hard cough, but to fortify the system against further attacks. If you are run down or emaciated you should certainly take this nourishing food medicine.

When the Lamp is Lit and the Children are in Bed

...e tired mother gets out her mending ...sket and begins to darn the holes ...ade in the hose by the restless feet of ...r little ones. It is so good to be quiet ...r a little she thinks. But very soon ...e over-wrought nerves assert themselves. She feels dizzy, her head throbs, ...d she has to lay aside the work and ...eep wearily to rest.

All work brings a natural weariness, a ...ealthy tiredness. But there is a weari...ess which is not natural and a tired-

...ess which is not healthy. The utterly ...orn-out feeling experienced by so ...any women is not due as a rule to ...he physical exhaustion of labor, but to ...he draining away of the strength by ...omanly diseases. Nervousness, headache, backache, and sleeplessness are ...ut a few of the common results of such ...diseased condition. Yet thousands of ...omen suffer from womanly diseases for ...ears and make little or no effort to ...ffect a cure. They treat womanly disease as if it was a purely local thing, and ...ly wake up to the disastrous effect of ...e disease upon the general health, ...hen there is an utter break down, followed perhaps by years of painful ill-...ess.

HOW TO BE CURED.

Any woman suffering from womanly disease can almost surely be cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This statement is based on the testimony of many thousands of women who have been cured of womanly diseases (often when aggravated by neglect or wrong treatment, and generally of a serious and painful nature), by the use of "Favorite Prescription."

"I used four bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription' and one of 'Golden Medical Discovery,'" writes Mrs. Elmer D. Shearer, of Mounthope, Lancaster Co., Pa., "and can say that I am cured of that dreaded disease, uterine trouble. Am in better health than ever before. Every one who knows me is surprised to see me look so well. In June, when I wrote to you, I was so poor in health that at times I could not walk. You answered my letter then and told me what to do—I followed your advice, and to-day am cured. I tell everybody that with God's help, Dr. Pierce's medicines cured me. If these few words are of any use to you you are welcome to use them. They might help some other poor, suffering woman."

Mrs. Shearer's case is a fair example of the average cure effected by the use of "Favorite Prescription" both in the completeness and quickness of the cure. Of course, in complicated and chronic cases the cure may be slower but it is none the less sure if the medicine is faithfully used as directed. The records show that ninety-eight women in every hundred who have given "Favorite Prescription" a fair and faithful trial have been perfectly and permanently cured.

UNNATURAL CONDITIONS.

Every woman should remember that a diseased condition is unnatural. The natural condition of the womanly organism is a condition of health and "Favorite Prescription" works with nature on nature's lines to re-establish that condition of perfect health.

"I never courted newspaper notoriety," writes Mrs. E. A. Bender, of Keene, Coshocton Co., Ohio, "yet I am not afraid to speak a good word for 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Pleasant Pellets.' Over a year ago I suffered terribly for nearly four weeks with prolapsus and weakness. After using one bottle of 'Favorite Prescription' and one of 'Pellets' I was a well woman. I have taken no medicine since and have had no symptoms of my former trouble. Have used the 'Favorite Prescription' at different times for more than four years and find it has no equal."

When the womanly health is re-established, the general health at once improves. There is no more backache or headache. The nerves are quiet, the sleep is sound and the appetite natural.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription establishes regularity, dries the drains which weaken women, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. It is the best preparative for maternity, giving muscular strength and elasticity and rendering the baby's advent practically painless. As a tonic for weak and "run-down" women it is unequaled, and nursing mothers will find it superior to beer or any of the medicines or beverages commonly believed to have a tonic and strengthening value. "Favorite Prescription" contains no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine or any other narcotic.

SICK WOMEN

are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is treated as sacredly confidential and the written confidences of women are guarded by the same strict professional privacy observed by Dr. Pierce and his staff in personal consultations with women at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Accept no substitute for "Favorite Prescription." The only motive for substitution is the little more profit made by the dealer on the sale of less meritorious medicines.

FREE MEDICAL BOOK.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, containing more than a thousand large pages is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the cloth-bound volume, or only 21 stamps for the book in paper covers. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

George Borba, formerly a compositor in this office, has leased the Sun of Healdsburg. The owner of the paper, J. C. Keene, will take a much-needed rest.

NOW LOOK OUT!

"Take care of yourself," say our friends. "I'll try to," we answer. We do take a little care, yet in spite of warm clothes, rubbers and mackintoshes, an army of people were bowled out by pneumonia and other lung and chest diseases last winter. They caught cold, neglected it, let it fix upon them, were torn by coughs, choked by inflammations and congestions, wasted by fever, tired out by pain and then gave up the fight. The hour you realize that you have a cold on the chest, place a Benson's Porous Plaster where the pain or oppression is felt. If you think two are needed make it two. No harm if you were covered with them. They act quickly and prevent the engorgment of blood in the organs. In this way—with ordinary caution as to exposure—you will break up the cold and avoid a serious sickness. No other applications, or any other form of treatment, will accomplish this as certainly and speedily. Benson's Plasters have a distinct and positive action and are curative to the highest degree. Use them with the same confidence for coughs, muscular rheumatism, the grip (back and chest) and all similar ailments. Women, who are chief sufferers from cold weather complaints, should keep these plasters always within reach. Get the genuine. All druggists, or we will prepay postage on any number ordered in the United States on receipt of 25c. each.

Get the Most Out of Your Food

You don't and can't if your stomach is weak. A weak stomach does not digest all that is ordinarily taken into it. It gets tired easily, and what it fails to digest is wasted.

Among the signs of a weak stomach are uneasiness after eating, fits of nervous headache, and disagreeable belching.

"I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla at different times for stomach troubles, and a run down condition of the system, and have been greatly benefited by its use. I would not be without it in my family. THE DOLL SHOW.

A Big Success Financially and Otherwise.

The Doll Show given for the benefit of the Plaza by the Woman's Club, Friday and Saturday of last week, was a big success. Financially it was great, about $190 being realized.

On the afternoon of Friday a large attendance of ladies and children were present, and all were entertained with a select program of exercises by the school children, drilled in a most efficient manner by Miss Minnie Cook, the well-known primary teacher.

The first number was a motion song by seven little girls, who sang and acted their parts in an easy and graceful manner. The song entitled "Hush, Hush, My Honey," by little Ramona Granice, was well received. Bernice Hocker, a bright little miss of eight years, pathetically recited "My Dolly is Dead." Then followed a drill and song, "The Little Mother," which showed careful training of the little girls who took part. The drill, "Little Peddlers," by a number of small boys, was excellent. A recitation by Freddie Duhring, "Seeing Things at Night," was rendered by this seven-year-old boy in a clear and forcible manner. The recitation by Master Eugene Harris was one of the features of the afternoon's program. Lucia Fochetti gave a comic receitation in costume which was well delivered. "Rock-a-by-Baby," a recitation in concert by a number of little girls, completed the matinee program.

The exercises over, the doll booth, in charge of Mrs. Pauline McMullen, Miss Katie McDonell and Miss Celeste Granice, became the center of attraction. It was beautifully set off with a large Christmas tree, with dolls of every description standing around it, making a very pretty picture. This booth sold a large number of dolls during the afternoon at good prices.

The coffee booth, in charge of Mrs. Bates, cleared over $10.

The candy booth, presided over by Mrs. G. D. Rich and Miss Doris Clewe, sold out its candy long before the afternoon closed.

Another pretty booth was the one presided over by Mrs. J. P. Weems. This was the guessing booth.

On Saturday afternoon the previous day's programme was repeated before a good sized audience. The booths did a fairly good business and those who secured doll, seemed well pleased with their purchases.

On Saturday night long before the doors of Union Hall were thrown open crowds of people were waiting on the outside to be admitted and by 8 o'clock the large hall was packed to the entrance doors.

The evening's program opened with a character song and chorus in which eight girls took part. This number was well received and applauded. "The Dear Little Dollies" was repeated as was "The Little Mothers'."

This was followed by a vocal solo by Miss Queen Montgomery.

Ramona Granice sang, by request, "Hush, Hush, My Honey."

A vocal solo by Mr. Benjamin Weed was loudly applauded as was Mr. Edwardo Montgomery's solo, "Under the Shade of the Palm." His voice was never heard to better advantage. Mr. Montgomery was recalled and sang with Miss Julie Granice "Believe."

After this the sketch written by Miss C. Celeste Granice, entitled "How One Woman Was Cured of Club Fever," was presented with the following cast:

Jack Summers.....Geo. L. Bulotti
Mrs. Jack Summers....Miss C. Granice
Pat Casey.....Prof. W. O. Hocker
Nora Miss Nellie Gordenker

The play was well staged and costumed and the characters well sustained. Mr. Hocker, personated the Irish policeman like an old stager and kept the audience in a roar of laughter.

The sketch abounds with amusing situations and a great deal of wit.

At its conclusion the author of the play and those who took part in the cast were called before the curtain and bowed their acknowledgment of the compliment.

Following this three beautiful tableaux were presented. These were arranged by Mrs. Appleton.

The literary program being concluded Mr. F. T. Duhring mounted the stage and announced that he would auction off the unsold dolls to the highest bidder. Among the highest bidders were Chas. H. Ohm, Frank Burris and Fred. Goess. One doll secured by Mr. Ohm cost him nearly $20. The auction disposed of all the dolls on hand at fancy figures.

The ladies netted about $190, which will go into a fund to be used for improving the historic Plaza of Sonoma.

THE LOST FOUND.

Little Joe McMullen Wanders Away From Home.

Little Joe McMullen, the three-year-old son of Mrs. Pauline McMullen and grandson of Mrs. Millie Bates, slipped out of his home last Sunday forenoon without being observed by the family and disappeared as though the earth had swallowed him up. The little fellow was missed within five minutes after leaving the house and it was thought he was playing with some of the neighbors' children. When every house within a block or two had been visited and no clue could be obtained as to his whereabouts terror seized the inmates of the child's home and an alarm given. Then men, women and children joined in the search which was kept up for half an hour, but without result. Then it was feared by the searchers that something serious had happened to the little tot and his relatives became almost frantic at the unaccountable disappearance. At this juncture little Joe was discovered by L. H. Green emerging from the entrance to his lumber yard on First street East utterly oblivious to the excitement he had created and none the worse for his adventure.

The youngster, it appears, immediately after leaving the house toddled down the street a short distance and then entered the vacant lot adjoining the Granice home and unobserved made his way through an opening in the rear fence into the lumber yard.

There was great rejoicing in the household when little Joe was restored to the arms of his almost distracted mother.

Victor Sartori's Big Deer Dead.

The big four-pointer buck belonging to Victor Sartori of Fairville gave up the ghost one day this week. Although a pet of Mr. Sartori's he was a very vicious and dangerous animal, and within the past year attacked and nearly killed two employees on Sartori's dairy farm. A short time since he made his escape from his corral and took possession of the Sonoma creek drawbridge, putting its watchman, Peter Hein, to flight. He was recaptured and returned to his paddock. One day last week he again gained his freedom and attacked several people, who fortunately escaped his fury by takfng refuge in houses and barns and barring the doors against his assaults. The animal was again secured by Mr. Sartori, who grabbed him by the horns for the purpose of subduing him. During the struggle that followed between man and beast Mr. Sartori's bull dog became excited and took a hand in the encounter. The dog fastened his fangs in the buck's hind leg and then again on the nose, and before he could be dragged off he inflicted fatal injuries. The buck survived the encounter several days, but "his hide was torn" and he meekly lay down and died.

Cold Weather.

The past week has been the coldest that has been experienced in this valley for fifteen or twenty years. The mornings have taken on a decidedly wintry aspect, the ground, trees and housetops being covered with a heavy coating of white frost and ice. Farmers say the cold snap has done no harm in this valley, but on the contrary much good, as the fruit buds have been kept back and the bugs extermi nated. However, a little warm weather just now would be a godsend to shivering humanity.

FIRE IN CHINESE WASHHOUSE.

Sonoma Has Another Narrow Escape from the Fire Fiend.

It is not generally known, but it is nevertheless a fact, that Sonoma had a close call from a serious conflagration on Wednesday night of last week.

On the night in questiou between 9 and 10 o'clock a coal oil lamp exploded in the kitchen of the Sang Tei Lung laundry on First street West adjoining Adler's wagon-making establishment. The burning oil was scattered broadcast over the room, igniting a large quantity of linen belonging to the patrons of the wash house and other inflammable material. The Chinese ironers and other employees rushed from an adjoining room and by cool judgment and the use of two big tubs of water, which happened to be near at hand, succeeded in quenching the flames without alarming the neighborhood, and the people of the town slumbered in peaceful ignorance of the narrow escape from a disastrous conflgration, as there is a long row of imflammable buildings adjoining the wash house on both sides and high north wind was blowing at the time.

The Chinese kept mum about the fire until Saturday. Then the week's wash had to be delivered, and the cat was out of the bag for sure, as the linen of several families had been entirely destroyed and that of many more was badly burned or scorched. Among those who had their entire week's wash ruined were the families of Mrs. N. Haraszthy and Mrs. A. B. Lubeck. Ng Loy, the manager of the laundry, will make good the losses. He is a cool-headed, mild mannered fellow. Had he been otherwise there would have been a different tale to tell.

Christmas Excursion Railway Rates.

In order that the local patrons of its road may spend a day or two in the metropolis or visit relatives on the line of its system during the Christmas holidays the California Northwestern has announced a liberal reduction on its regular transportation rates. Commencing on Saturday morning, Deecember 21st, round trip tickets will be sold to San Francisco and with a return limit to Thursday evening, December 26th, at the usual Saturday to Monday rates—that is to say, a fare and a half for the round trip. On Christmas day tickets will be sold at one fare for the round trip with return limit for the following day.

WATER IN THE AIR.

Even at Great Heights There Is Considerable Moisture.

It is seldom realized, save by aeronauts and mountaineers, how much watery haze the lower air contains. Blue sky itself is but the ultimate fading out of haze, and when whole lower layers of the atmosphere are surmounted the blue above is bluer than before only by reason of the haze there being more attenuated. The result of investigations carried out chiefly by high flying kites goes to show that, though at great heights the air may be spoken of as dry, this is but a relative term. Commonly about one-half of the water vapor in the air is left below by the time the first mile and a half is climbed, but the actual moisture present varies with circumstances. Thus up to a few thousand feet the air is drier during winter and at night and damper during summer and by day than it is near the ground.

In the light of these facts it becomes easy to conceive how in certain conditions of moist weather and on a dark night the light of a large town reflected in the heaven may be seen even at a long distance. Under the clear skies of other lands reflection may be seen on the under surface of a cloud over great ranges. Thus the cloud heaps over thunderstorms on the American prairies may sometimes be seen at night on the horizon at a distance amounting to some 200 miles.

Again, it will be easy to grasp the further fact that haze in the air is more clearly manifested to the observer who, whether in a balloon or on a mountain side, has climbed above its lower moister levels. Here the explanation is simply that from his new point of view the haze is seen against the dark earth while being itself illuminated by the light from the sky above.—Gentleman's Magazine.

The Street Market, Cologne.

This street market is a pecularly democratic institution and one rapidly becomes friendly with the saleswomen or even a chance passerby, entrapped unawares and becomes a purchaser like oneself. Thrift and sturdiness are the distinguishing characteristics of these Rhineland peasants. They know well how to drive a bargain, but they are honest to a pfennig and good humored to a fault. Very interesting is their babble about the flocks and the crops, very quaint they look clad in their national costumes, and most delicious are the mountain strawberries, fresh cheese and thick cream which these clever housewives bring in from the country, especially to tempt hotel weary travelers. One eats the little luncheon with leckerly—sweet cakes—in the shade of the green trees which line the Cologne market, gazing on the tiled houses which girt it about and catching a glimpse of the cathedral's slender spire, pointing ever aloft, rising above all, "patiently remote," and in its superb proportion of matchless architecture, making one, as Lowell says, "own himself a happy Goth."—Catholic World.

Afghan Ferries.

The Afghan ferryman at some ferries on the river Oxus makes use of ponies to get his clumsy boat across the stream. "One or sometimes two of these rather insufficient looking animals are attached to the boat by bellybands or surcingles, which allow them to swim alongside, with the strain of the haul on their middles. They are to a certain extent supported in the water by the ropes which attach them to the boat, but only their heads are usually visible as they strike out with measured pace, snorting with each stroke, being directed from the boat as to which way they should go. So powerful is their stroke that two small thirteen hand ponies will easily pull a boat which might carry ten tons of dead weight. One almost looked to see if their feet were webbed as they struggled into the shallows of the river banks. It was a revelation as to the strength of a horse's stroke in the water."

Too Valuable to Lose.

An important cricket match was scheduled in an English village, and, to the disappointment of everybody, the best player was unable to play owing to a sprained wrist. The new curate was hurriedly substituted and by his brilliant play secured a victory for the local team. The next morning as the squire, himself an enthusiastic cricketer, was leaving the church, where the curate had just preached his first sermon, he was asked by the vicar what he thought of the new curate.

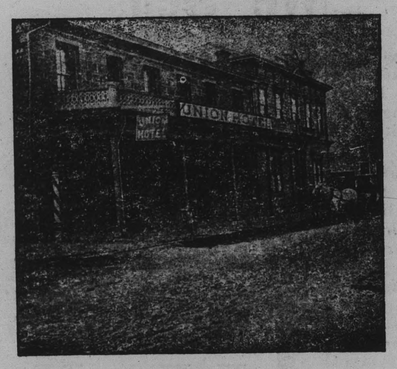

"Oh," responded the squire, "his voice is weak, his doctrine's shaky, he isn't as learned as he should be but his cricket is a fair eye opener. We must keep him, even if we have to pay him double the salary."

A Good Cough Medicine.

[From the Gazette, Toowoomba, Australia]

I find Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is an excellent medicine. I have been suffering from a severe cough for the last two months, and it has effected a cure. I have great pleasure in recommending it.—W. C. Wockner. This is the opinion of one of our oldest and most respected residents, and has been voluntarily given in good faith that others may try the remedy and be benefited, as was Mr. Wockner. This remedy is sold by F. Duhring.

For Sale—A $50 life scholarship in Ayers' Business College, San Francisco, will be sold at a sacrifice. This is the best Business College on the Pacific Coast. Apply at this office.

Nasal Catarrh quickly yields to treatment by Ely's Cream Balm, which is agreeably aromatic. It is received through the nostrils, cleanses and heals the whole surface over which it diffuses itself. Druggists sell the 50c. size; Trial size by mail, 10 cents. Test it and you are sure to continue the treatment.

Announcement.

To accommodate those who are partial to the use of atomizers in applying liquids into the nasal passages for catarrhal troubles, the proprietors prepare Cream Balm in liquid form, which will be known as Ely's Liquid Cream Balm. Price including the spraying tube is 75 cents. Druggists or by mail. The liquid form embodies the medicinal properties of the solid preparation.

F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS:
BALTIMORE, Md., March 30, 1901.
Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.
About five years ago my right ear began to sing, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely.
I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.
I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain
Very truly yours,
